

Dear Administrator or PTO Leader,

Here's a new option for school fundraising—one that doesn't require parents or students to sell various products. It involves hosting a textile recycling bin in partnership with Bay State Textiles!

Families can drop off surplus textile items of all types, from clothing to linens, and our school earns $120 per ton of recyclables collected. These items are then repurposed or recycled: some are reused as wearable clothing, while others are processed into products like industrial wiping cloths or automotive stuffing.

Bay State Textiles services our area and is eager to work with schools like ours to support this sustainable initiative. If you're interested, the next step is to contact Bay State Textiles to coordinate logistics and arrange for delivery and placement of the bin.

This earth-friendly fundraiser doesn't cost the schools anything and supports the valuable lessons we teach students about sustainability, reusing, and recycling. Hosting a textile recycling bin could be a simple, impactful, and profitable fundraiser for our school.

Sincerely,
